We use it to type monstrously long papers in the wee hours of the night...We use it to send those crazy forwarded e-mail messages to friends...We use it to "surf the net" in hopes of finding the sites that will best suit our needs...We use it to find the perfect books at the Buehler Library...And, if we're lucky enough, we use it to play classic games like Solitaire and Wheel of Fortune.

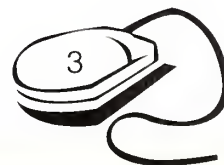

This amazing object is indeed the computer. And it is the computer that has become the lifeblood of the Elmhurst College community as we anticipate the arrival of the new millenium. If you think about it, it's hard to imagine life at Elmhurst College without computers because they have infiltrated just about every aspect of our daily lives.

But for now turn off your computer and take a few moments to enjoy the 1997-98 Elms Yearbook.

Jordan Mania

Hits EC!

Michael Jordan, the Bulls' all-time leading scorer, has spent hours at Elmhurst College since 1987. The only years he didn't have basketball camps at Elmhurst were when he was playing in the Olympic games or the Baseball Minor Leagues.

July 12-16 Michael Jordan's boys' camp took place. The co-ed camp was July 19-23. Both of these were filled to the maximum, ten kids per coach. The participants were kids from all over, between fifth and twelfth grades. Some kids stayed in the College's residence halls. All were very excited to play ball and see Jordan. Many took pictures and got an autograph.

The 1997 Jordan Camps were directed by Ed Janka, veteran coach. The camp staff included high school and college coaches from around the country, Elmhurst College basketball players, and some of the top collegiate players in the U.S.

Each participant took home a Nike Michael Jordan camp t-shirt, a Michael Jordan Wilson basketball, a certificate of participation, player profile card, a photograph of his or her team with Jordan, and a camp video.

Come Rain or Come Shine

...And that was exactly what they did. Despite threatening skies, the College Mall was gradually filled with fans in eager anticipation of Diane Schuur's appearance. Resident families, Elmhurst College community members and many others left almost no patch of grass empty as they relaxed in their lawn chairs and indulged in whatever was brought in their picnic basket or sold by the vendors.

The concert took place on Saturday, August 9, and was sponsored by Old Kent Bank. The Elmhurst College Jazz Band opened the night with a pre-show performance. At about 6:45 p.m. Diane Schuur entered the stage and was greeted by cheers from all. Aided by her three-and-a-half octave range, Schuur mesmerized the old and young alike.

"She sings great with big bands," said Doug Beach, director of the Elmhurst Jazz Band. "She's always been a great person to work with. She doesn't have a big-star attitude. There's certainly been no change in quality," continued Beach.

"I said a prayer it wouldn't rain," Schuur told the audience, and when she said "I'm gonna love you like nobody's loved you, come rain or come shine," she turned and smiled wide at a cheering crowd.

Discover Titanic

The first Roland Quest Lecture was presented at Elmhurst College on September 21, 1997. This lectureship was established in memory of alumnus Roland Quest (Class of 1936) who was recognized in the aerospace technology field for his work on the original space shuttle.

The evening began with a welcome by Julie Jezuit, chairperson of Union Board, and an introduction by President Bryant Cureton. The featured speaker was undersea explorer Dr. Robert Ballard.

Dr. Ballard spoke on his 1985 discovery of the Titanic remains and the interesting

"black smokers" or underwater volcanoes. He discussed the JASON Foundation for Excellence which provides children the opportunity to learn more about undersea explorations. Also of interest was his recent expedition to explore ancient ships and artifacts. Dr. Ballard provided an interesting and humorous portrayal of his work through an interesting slide presentation.

To highlight the lectureship a replica of the Lusitania by Wayne Kusy was on display. The replica was 16 feet long and made of an amazing 194,000 toothpicks.

Adjusting to College Life

Below: Teresa Smith, Dr. George Thoma, Glenn Brooks, and Kathy Kueper have their hands full moving in new students.

On Saturday, August 23, a new beginning was occurring at Elmhurst College for this was the day that our new students arrived on campus.

As they pulled up in their cars, students were greeted by the Jay Crew who helped them move their stuff into their rooms while answering the many questions they had. But, as tiring as the process was, this was only the start of many things to come.

After the moving was finished, students gathered in the Chapel where the New Student Convocation was taking place. There they got an opportunity to meet their professors who would be educating them for many years to come. Afterward everybody went to the Mall where the Community Picnic was being held. This gave the opportunity for new students and their families to meet others who were just as nervous and excited as they were.

As soon as lunch had concluded, new students met with their Orientation Student Leaders who came up with many creative ice-breakers so that everybody could get to know one another.

As the day progressed students were invited to attend Intervention Theater, Jay Play, and the Orientation Mixer which concluded the day's festivities.

However, there were still many things happening during the week. Activities such as Suburban Immersion, a boat ride on Lake Michigan, and Ice Cream Socials were held so that each and every student would feel welcomed to Elmhurst College.

Hablamos (We Speak)

Dr. Michael Bell welcomes the audience to the Second Annual Cesar E. Chavez Guestship.

During the fall, Elmhurst College and the rest of the United States celebrated the many contributions that Hispanics have made to the United States of America in Hispanic Heritage Month.

The month began with the Second Annual Cesar E. Chavez Guestship on September 15. It featured Maria Hinojosa, an award-winning journalist who talked about "Empowerment for Latinos and Women."

On September 24 a Latino Art Exhibit featured Juan Angel Chavez Estrada, whose exhibits included 3-dimensional assemblages.

The American School of Modern Latin Dance came to Elmhurst College at the beginning of October for a Latin Dance Exhibition. Students enjoyed the explanations and demonstrations of the Latin dances.

On October 10 members of H.A.B.L.A.M.O.S. and guest dancers got together to teach others how to dance to other Hispanic party dances.

"Festival Flamenco de Elmhurst" took place on November 14 in the Mill Theatre. Marija Temo sang and danced, Felipe Lopez played the guitar, and Angela de Jerez danced.

With closed-circuit campus broadcasts WRSE began on October 25, 1947. This Homecoming the radio station (88.7 FM) celebrated its 50th Anniversary. In honor of the 50 years, a fund-raising dinner took place on October 25. Many alumni who were involved with WRSE's broadcasts attended this event.

-- Kristin Brown

It seemed like any other weekend in Elmhurst. The wind was blowing, the leaves were changing color, and the memories of summer were leaving to welcome in the fall, but this was a different weekend for this was homecoming weekend.

The weekend of festivities was kicked off with the Pep Rally. Along with the Pom Squad, Jazzy Jays and the cheerleaders got the crowd hyped up for what was to be an entertaining show. As everybody was cheering the football team, Coach Roach gave a remarkable speech about how much heart our team has despite a disappointing start to the season. Finally, as tensions rose, Quintin Blackstrom and Katie DiCicco were announced as the king and queen for this year's homecoming.

The next morning the college held its Homecoming parade which featured some of Elmhurst College's most promising organizations. Alpha Phi and Delta Chi showed their school spirit by displaying an array of floats which captured the eyes of many. Others such as the Pom Squad and Alpha Sigma Phi threw candy to the eagerly awaiting children who were watching the parade. Sigma Kappa was awarded the Spirit Award for showing the most spirit throughout Homecoming weekend.

That afternoon the football team took on North Park. There they displayed their many talents as they gained their first win of the season with a 28-25 win.

Finally the Homecoming Dance, which was titled "There is No Place Like Home," was held that evening at the Oakbrook Hyatt. There people ate a wonderful dinner and afterward were able to dance the night away.

Homecoming

Singing "Day by Day"

"Day By Day" may have been the theme of this year's Homecoming musical, but it was night after night that you could see the cast working on the 20th Anniversary production of Godspell at the Mill Theatre. Professor Alan Weiger, Director of the Theatre, celebrated his 20th year at the College this year and decided to commemorate the event by bringing the first musical he ever directed at the Mill back to life, with tidbits from the '90s to help "stylize" the production.

Written in the '70s, Godspell was one of the most popular musicals to grace the stage, and the theatre sold out five of the six evenings in which it was performed. The exhausted cast was asked to perform encore performances, but had to decline due to time scheduling problems.

"We pulled in eight extremely talented freshmen for this show, out of a cast of 11 people, and it came out beautifully," Assistant Director Kristen Burdette stated. "We had our rocky times but, in all, I'd say the audiences we had were very pleased with the show considering we received five standing ovations."

Ticket sales were unbelievably chaotic for this show and many people were turned away due to not enough seating to accommodate all the people, even though the theatre seated approximately 185 people each evening.

Perhaps the most exciting aspect of the show was the outpouring of alumni who contacted the theatre, wanting to be a part of the show. Many of those alumni had stated that they were part of the original Mill production done in 1977. "Day By Day" featured a few of those alumni who joined in during the song and appeared on the stage the final night of the performance.

Godspell brought a new light to the Mill Theatre this year, and can only hope to have as much support next year and in their future productions.

Kate Strand puts on a smiley face hat, Jim Nugent a Vikings hat, and Melissa Niksic a "Dr. Seuss" hat for a scene in the musical Godspell.

Many guys in the audience get a grin on their face while Shalagh O'Neill solos "Turn Back, O Man."

Jesus (Phillip Vermillion) addresses each one of his disciples at the Last Supper. Melissa Niksic shares the peace symbol before a last hug.

Shalagh O'Neill begs by pulling on Nick Falco's pant leg.

Party Without Alcohol

Many gathered together in the Founders Lounge for Party Pursuit.

Alcohol Awareness Week (Oct. 25 - Nov. 1) provided different ways for Elmhurst students to learn about alcohol, talk about it, experience non-alcoholic parties, and sign posters pledging not to drink for the week.

Monday, in Founders Lounge, a presentation on DUIs was given by a police officer. A student then talked about losing a loved one due to alcohol.

Wednesday night Chaplain Scott Matheney led an open forum. After last year's drunk driving incident (where two students died) there are people on campus who feel we need to be responsible drinkers, if we chose to drink. It was also pointed out during this time that we all choose what we drink.

Thursday night was the Party Pursuit where many from the fraternities and sororities gathered. As people entered they received a role to play of someone at a party (some tried to get others to drink, others were wild, and then there were some sitting and having a conversation). Without sharing the role all gathered in the Founders Lounge for a party that served alcohol-free punch. When the loud music was turned on everyone acted out their part. That social night ended with questions for the participants to discuss.

The events for the week ended with a Masquerade Ball on Halloween sponsored by Zeta Phi Beta, Niebur Hall, and Union Board. That Friday night students gathered in costume in the cafeteria where they did the Electric Slide.

Strengthen the Global Effort

To not lose the impact of those who lost loved ones or those gone, to remember the struggles and battles, and most important to not let this disease go unnoticed! Elmhurst College's AIDS Day was to remember those who died, support those who are fighting, and show awareness for this problem that affects us all. Many student organizations, faculty, and staff participated in this annual event, started in 1988, by presenting a brief statement at the Memorial. Campus Crusade for Christ wishes to be a resource for people who are dealing with this issue. Campus Crusade offered a video called "Too Young to Die," a story about life with AIDS, for groups, individuals, staff, students, or anyone who wishes to learn more.

Searching for the Good City

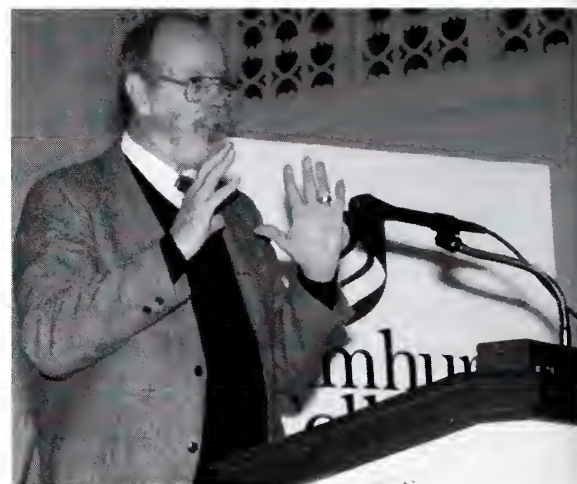

The 12th annual Dr. Rudolf G. Schade Endowed Lecture took place in Hammerschmidt Memorial Chapel Auditorium on November 16, 1997. Rev. Dr. Kenneth L. Vaux enlightened all students, professors, and others when he spoke on "the good city." Dr. Vaux stated that the nature of a good city protects and provides. With this he brought in the 10 principles that are found in the Bible.

Some of these principles deal with justice, peace, order, and freedom. His research dealt with Strasbourg in 1540 to the present-day Chicago. By enlightening us about our history he hoped we would have a greater understanding of our humanity.

He concluded his time with a chance for the audience to ask questions. Many then filed downstairs for a reception.

Churches Come Together

Elmhurst College Community, friends, and leaders from churches came together for the Founders Day Convocation. They celebrated the transforming Evangelical heritage and its expression through Elmhurst College.

On Tuesday, September 2, in Hammerschmidt Memorial Chapel, Founders Day Convocation 1997 started with the prelude "Trio Sonata in C Major" by J. S. Bach. The service continued with many different tunes and speakers.

Get in the Holiday Spirit

Paul Taylor carries the light out to others, in the Chapel, so everyone has a lit candle.

On December 3, 1997, people gathered in Hammerschmidt Memorial Chapel around 7:00 at night for A Festival of Lessons and Carols. As you walked up to the Chapel you saw many luminaria. Each bag had a name of a person who died from or has struggled with cancer.

Seasonal music was performed by the Concert Choir and Jazz Band. There were times when the congregation sang along. Throughout the program students, faculty, and staff read from the Bible.

Towards the end of the time all joined in singing Silent Night. During this carol everyone held a lit candle. After the closing many gathered at the President's Home for a reception.

On December 4 Elmhurst College honored

Kwanzaa in the Founders Lounge. Kwanzaa is a seven day cultural celebration of the first harvest that takes place for a week, starting December 26. It is a celebration of the seven principles of life.

Christmas carols were sung and played in the Founders Lounge at 3:30 in the afternoon on December 5. The Concert Choir and Elmhurst College and Community Band performed a variety of holiday tunes. Santa Claus even arrived to give each child a little gift.

Hannukkah was also celebrated at Elmhurst College on December 5. This Jewish event had prayer, lighting of the Menorah (a nine-branch candelabra), food, singing, and a traditional dance. In 1997, Hanukkah began December 23 and lasted eight days.

Morocco Trip

This January Term, 11 Elmhurst College students ventured across the Atlantic, under the direction of Dr. George Thoma, Dr. Patricia Lynott and Dr. Richard Roughton, to Morocco, North Africa. The focus of study was the economics of globalization. The students studied at Sup de Co, a business school in Marrakech. They made many lasting friendships with the Moroccan students, some of whom studied at Elmhurst the previous summer. While in Morocco the Elmhurst students were able to enjoy the beautiful countryside on a four-day bus tour through the Atlas Mountains. Other highlights of the trip were riding a camel, climbing sand dunes in the Sahara Desert, laying on the beach in Agadir, shopping for souvenirs and spending time with the Moroccan students.

THE CENTER FOR PROF

'TRUE PROFESSIONAL' (noun): "The definition of a 'true professional' at the College is a definition-in-the-works, one that is continually evolving and being redefined," said Dr. Lawrence B. Carroll, Director of the Center for Professional Excellence. "It can be described as someone who has strong personal values such as integrity, social responsibility and ethics, and wide-ranging skills such as critical thinking and effective oral and written communication. In addition, a 'true professional' combines expertise in the liberal arts and a specific academic discipline while understanding and developing a conceptual framework for his or her approach to life."

Dr. Carroll went on to say, "The workplace that today's generation faces is a changing place from generations past. College students need to be life-long learners; they need to be flexible and willing to explore."

Consequently, in the College's quest to produce and nurture "true professionals," the Center for Professional Excellence becomes a vital asset. The College has established the Center for Professional Excellence, a new, student-centered, educational program designed to integrate both liberal and professional education. After tremendous planning, preparation and initial start-up gifts, the Center's programs began in September of 1997.

"With the Center for Professional Excellence, we are enhancing the whole curriculum," Dr. Carroll stated.

WHAT THE CENTER FOR PROFESSIONAL EXCELLENCE IS:

- Career exploration
- Development of social and civic responsibilities
- Life-long learning
- Integrated with academic programs

WHAT IT IS NOT:

- A major or minor
- A credit-earning course
- Required for graduation
- A means to an end

The Center for Professional Excellence is housed in this building, located on Walter Street.

Theatre and Music Tour of England

This January Term, seven students had the privilege of touring England with faculty members, Dr. Ted Lerud and Tim Hays. They did the traditional sightseeing in London, including: the House of Parliament, Big Ben, St. Paul's Cathedral, and Westminster Abbey. In addition, they saw the houses of Paul McCartney, Ringo Starr, and George Harrison, Strawberry Fields, and Penny Lane in Liverpool, Shakespeare's house in Stratford-upon-Avon, and the ancient Roman Baths in Bath.

The students had the opportunity to attend many plays including: Shakespeare's Twelfth Night and Romeo and Juliet, Ibsen's Enemy of the People, in addition to the musical Blood Brothers and children's pantomime Aladdin. The theatre itinerary also included tours of theatres. The students visited with members of ASCAP in London, and went on a thorough tour of Beatles memorabilia in Liverpool, including the museum, The Beatles Story, and a visit to the Cavern Club.

2. THE MASTER IN PROFESSIONAL ACCOUNTANCY

is designed to build an undergraduate accounting program and to prepare students to sit for the Certified Public Accountant (CPA) exam. With an emphasis on the integration of liberal arts and professional preparation, it combines technical accounting and information systems skills with oral and written communication skills, ethical awareness, critical thinking and teamwork skills.

MORE ABOUT THE GRADUATE PROGRAMS...

Beginning August 31, these five programs will be offered. "The approval of graduate study by the North Central Association marks a significant expansion in the educational opportunities available within our teaching-learning community," said Dr. John Bohnert, Dean of Graduate Study.

"Our motive for implementing graduate studies is to fully serve the needs of our students and to assist them in achieving at the highest professional level that they desire," said Dr. James Kulich, Chairperson of the Continuing Education Committee and Special Assistant to the President.

"We chose the five particular programs that we did based on three things: the current state of the business world, the particular strengths of the College, and the opportunity to articulate the special uniqueness that is Elmhurst College," he said.

All of the programs are based on a two-year model, meaning that all students enrolled in a particular program will take the same classes and work with the same group of students throughout. This provides a special advantage for not only developing mutual respect and support among students, but also in allowing for the progressive development of concepts from term to term and the synergistic matching of course content between the courses.

3. THE MASTER OF SCIENCE IN COMPUTER NETWORK SYSTEMS will provide the necessary hardware and software knowledge and skills needed to design, implement, program and administer a computer network system that would be integrated into a business, industrial, educational or similar environment.

5. THE MASTER OF ARTS IN PROFESSIONAL WRITING AND CULTURE

was created in response to the increasing corporate need for employees to be able to synthesize and communicate large bodies of information to a variety of audiences. The curriculum brings together courses in professional writing and literary study and blends them in a focus on the concerns of the modern workplace.

Jazz Band

The Jazz Band is among the many performing groups at Elmhurst. The band was busy this year performing at over 50 concerts throughout the year. While some musical events took place on campus, the band also expounded their talent off campus. This year, on campus, they participated at the Jazz Festival, the Summer Extravaganza, and Elmfest. The musicians had the opportunity to jazz up the wild life at Brookfield Zoo. The band toured various high schools in southern Illinois hoping to recruit prospective band members. In addition to that the band also performs at various social occasions such as weddings and parties.

The Jazz Band prides itself in taking on pieces that are both challenging and professional. Under the direction of Doug Beach, the band continues to aspire for higher goals. This year the band was fortunate enough to release a CD featuring some of its most outstanding work.

The Jazz Band took on an adventure of a lifetime this year by making a trip to Indonesia. Indonesia is a body of islands located in the East Indies.

It was quite an honor for the band to be invited to the Jak Jazz Festival. Elmhurst College's Jazz Band was the only college band at the festival. The band was asked to perform based on past outstanding performances in other international events.

While visiting, the band played at JAMZ and New York Cafe jazz clubs in Jakarta. The band made a visit to the National Museum, Old City Hall, and the Old Harbor. The band enjoyed the privilege of meeting other performers and jazz bands from other parts of the world. The Jazz Festival is the biggest event Jakarta has and people from all over come to attend this musical extravaganza.

Vocal Jazz

The Vocal Jazz group has a lot to be proud of this year. The group was fortunate enough to attend the Collegiate Showcase in Memphis, Tennessee. All choir groups that attend the convention must audition to get accepted. It was the talent of this 16-member group that earned them outstanding ratings for their performance. Meghan Losch was a soloist in the opening ceremonies.

The Vocal Jazz performed fall and spring concerts here on campus. The group also did some gigs on the side including a Christmas concert at Nordstroms at the Oakbrook shopping center.

Choir

Becky Wunsch, Meghan Losch and Katie DiCicco perform at the Fall Picnic. The choir picnic builds friendships that last a lifetime.

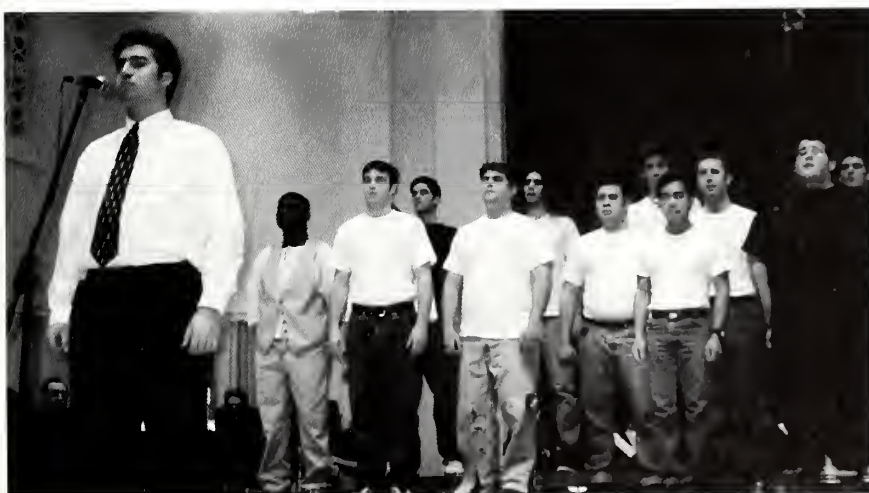

The Choir has also had an eventful year. They, too, performed fall and spring concerts on campus. For their Spring Concert, they had the opportunity to meet with Robert Convery, the writer of a song they performed, "I Have A Dream." Convery helped the Choir with the piece.

The Choir also took a 6-day tour to Canada, Michigan and Indiana in which they performed a concert every day. This was a great experience for the Choir because they were able to perform for so many people and also enjoy the sites. This 40-member choir is under the direction of Susan Moninger.

EC & Community Band

The 1997-98 school year for the Elmhurst College and Community Band has been very eventful. In the month of October, the Band had its first tour of the school year. The Band went to Indiana for three days, touring different schools and giving concerts along the way. The band used these concerts as practice for their big concert they were to perform when they returned to Elmhurst.

The concert was a smash! The EC and Community Band prides itself in challenging itself each concert with harder and harder compositions. In December, the Band performed a holiday concert in Yorktown Mall. On the last Monday of January, the Band met to prepare for the graduation concert in February, which was followed by a concert in the Chapel on March 14.

The Band was fortunate to go on a second band tour. They spent one night in Wisconsin where they stayed on the University of Wisconsin-Madison's campus. A highlight of the trip was having a clinic with Mike Leckrone, a well-known composer.

The band performed their last concert on May 4. The band of almost 100 members is under the direction of Judith Grimes.

This year the ensemble had the privilege to meet with Dede Sampaio, a Brazilian percussionist. He helped the group with some of the Brazilian pieces they were performing in their December concert.

The Ensemble also performed a concert in May. Some of the highlights included a collection from Abbey Road by the Beatles and a four-mallet solo on the marimba by senior Amber Downing.

Kris Myers enjoys being center stage.

Art Shows

Elmhurst College always prides itself on the many different forms of art that are expressed throughout the year. Being a liberal arts college the Art Department encourages variety and diversity. Throughout the year many different forms of art are displayed in the Frick Center. In addition to student work, faculty work and outside community work is celebrated.

This year many art shows were held. In fact, depending upon the month there was a different theme for each show that was held. During Hispanic Heritage Month Juan Angel Chavez Estrada gave a brief lecture and shared his work with the campus. The works he displayed were primarily murals and collages. During Women's History Month the women faculty also displayed their work in the Frick Center. There were a variety of mediums ranging from electronic imaging, sculpture, photograph, and paintings.

The Art Department also requires all seniors as a capstone project to display the work they completed while at Elmhurst College. This is essential for graduation. It gives the students the opportunity to take pride in what they have achieved, and it also involves the community to come and see their accomplishments. A formal reception is held for the opening of the show.

Theatre

The 1997-1998 theatre season began its year with the anniversary production of Godspell. This show was the kickoff to the year, completing its run with several sellout shows. After the musical, there was a much lower key "Theatre Go Round" under the supervision of Alan Weiger. "Theatre Go Round" consisted of six student-directed and produced one-act plays, ranging from farce comedies about bats, adultery, and silly stage hands, to serious dramas about humanitarian issues, and even a hypothetical confrontation between two great leaders, mixed with performances from the oral interpretation class.

Once the January Term began, sophomore Laura Sherwin directed the three-act comedy Exit the Body. The show was a murder-mystery consisting of zany characters coming hilariously on and off stage at exactly the right times. With only one month to rehearse, the cast was pressed and the construction of the set consisted of long all-nighters in the theatre, but ended up a success.

Leslie Peknik and alumnus Adam George perform a scene from Dostoevski's Gamble in which they portray Polina and Alexy.

Members of the cast of Dostoevski's Gamble perform a dramatic scene in the Mill Theatre.

Cornell Wright and Quintin Backstrom perform a dialog in the one acts.

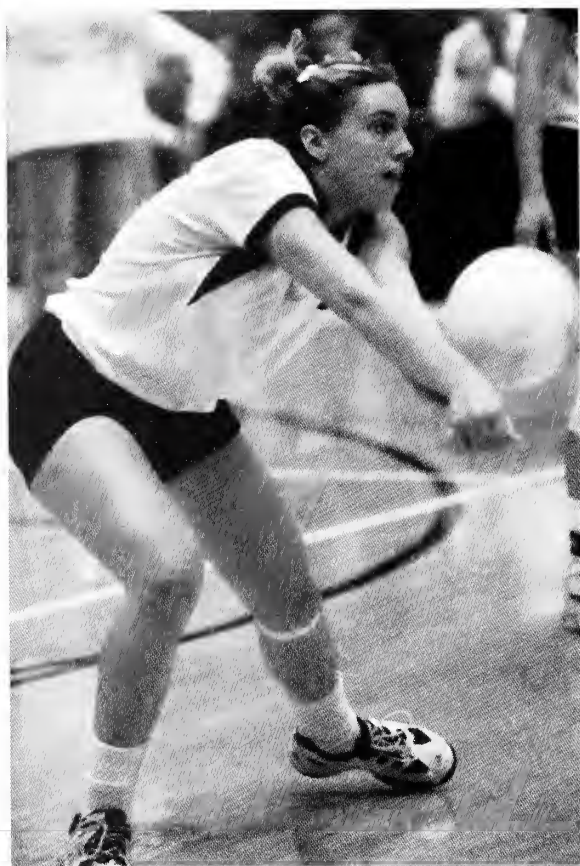

Jim Nugent and co-star perform a light-hearted dialogue in the one-acts.

In March, Associate Professor Lance Wilcox's script-writing talent was displayed on stage when his original Dostoevski's Gamble made its world premiere performance on the stage of the Mill Theatre under the direction of adjunct faculty member Robin Bennett. With excellent performances and breathtaking costuming by costume mistress and dramaturg Wendy Shure, the story of Fyodor Dostoevski's stress-driven mind and his attempts to juggle debts, family, love and sanity was unfolded.

To complete the theatre season, Robin Bennett took on William Shakespeare's The Winter's Tale, in May. Bennett took on a very different approach to traditional Shakespeare. She had her small cast double and sometimes even triple up on parts to complete the whole cast, making the pressure of such a shortened rehearsal time even more pressed, yet very interesting.

The 1997-98 theatre season, both personally and financially, was dubbed a success and the old Mill Theatre still stands, eagerly awaiting future productions.

Volleyball Places 2nd in CCIW

Women's Volleyball

It was a great season for the volleyball team. The volleyball season started in September and ended the second week in November. The team had 33 wins and only six losses. According to Coach Julie Hall, "It was an exceptional year."

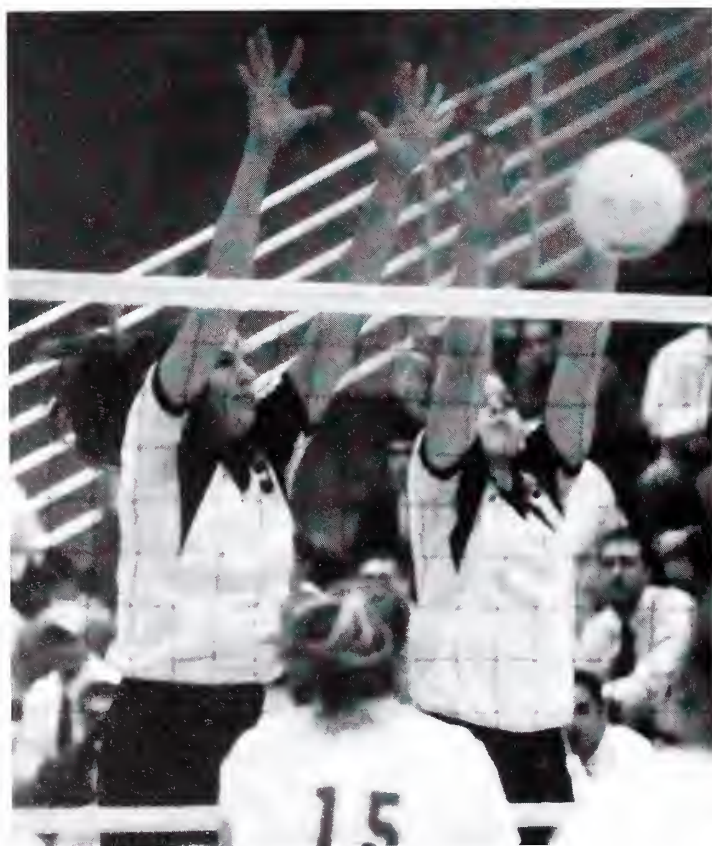

The big event for the team was when members of Elmhurst College's 1987 team, who were inaugurated into the Hall of Fame, came and spoke to the team.

The team did great until the championship game of the CCIW Tournament where one of the players suffered an injury and the Bluejays were defeated.

This was the first time in a long time at Elmhurst College that the volleyball team was back in national-level performance. The CCIW Player-of-the-Year was junior Sarah Hawkins. Some other great accomplishments were by Liana Beenenga, senior, who went All-Regional and second team All-Conference, as well as Deb Hughes, junior, and Heather Shefbuch, senior, who received an honorable mention.

Hall said, "The team went way beyond my expectations in every other aspect. It was an outstanding season, we had a great time, and the team was very close."

Women's Soccer

"We are competitive and have the desire to win." This is how one of the members of the women's soccer team described the team.

The team, which ended up with a season record of 13-5-1 (3-3-1 in conference), had many memorable moments during this past season. One of the players recalls the game they had against Illinois Wesleyan as being the most memorable of the season: Rabia Khan said, "In double-overtime, 120 minutes of play, each player gave 110 percent! No one gave up. You could see their desire."

Other memorable moments came when players such as Staci Barton, goalkeeper, set a single-match school record of 25 saves, along with a single-season school record of 163 saves and 1783 minutes played. Barton also set a school record of eight shutouts. Along with Barton, Kournie Waterman set a single-season school record with 14 assists, and Jenny Morin set a single-match school record by scoring five goals in a single game against Millikin University.

As impressive as these statistics are, the team captain Rabia Khan was quick to point out that this is a team sport. It takes a team to win a game and a team to lose it.

Men's and Women's Cross Country

This year's men's and women's cross country team was the most successful in the history of Elmhurst College! The women's team record was 102-41 while the men's overall record was 98-53. Both teams set several goals and went after them by dedicating themselves to running. The sacrifice, commitment and dedication helped them be one of the top Division III programs in the Midwest.

Highlights of the season include both teams winning the Elmhurst Invitational, the men winning the state meet for the first time ever, winning eight trophies during the season, and the men's and women's team placing higher in eight of nine meets this season than any other team in school history.

The 34 runners on the team worked together with the philosophy that there is no "I" in team. The team consisted mostly of freshmen and sophomores with two seniors, Nicole Purk and Cornell Wright. Nicole set several records during her career. She was all-state, all-conference, the first woman to win an invitational and voted most valuable runner by her teammates. Other awards were most improved, Melissa Janvrin and Elvis McCarter, and men's MVP Aaron Vande Slunt.

The team is looking forward to a great season next year and hopes to become the first-time national qualifiers for Elmhurst College with the young team and many freshmen being recruited.

Women's Tennis

With the help of a new head coach and five new members, the Elmhurst College women's tennis team was able to complete its goal this year, a winning season finishing 7-6. Ken Prebble served as the new head women's tennis coach for the 1997 season. Coach Prebble helped reconstruct the Elmhurst College women's tennis program.

The women's tennis team had its first winning season which has helped to make a new place and name for the team in the conference. This year, junior Lisa Nicky placed third in the CCIW. Nicky was named MVP, Laurie Rich was named Most Improved, Jamie Maslowski was Newcomer of the Year and Mandy Grant was the Most Inspirational Player.

The program has been extended into the spring in hopes of preparing the players for another winning season next fall. The 1997 women's tennis team has set a new standard for future tennis teams at Elmhurst College.

Bluejays Basketball Classic Champs

Men's Basketball

One might compare the Elmhurst men's basketball season to a roller-coaster ride with many ups and downs. Head Coach Mark Scherer and the Bluejays ended up with a 13-12 overall record and a 7-7 conference record.

Elmhurst's schedule was undoubtedly the toughest it had been in quite some time. Over winter break the team traveled to Atlanta to take on two nationally ranked teams. The Bluejays split by beating #9 Oglethorpe University and losing to University of the South in a very hard-fought game.

Probably the highlight of the year came when the team took first place in the Press Publications Bluejay Basketball Classic by beating two very good teams: Wilmington College and Manchester College. Eric Stark, junior guard, was named the Most Valuable Player; while James Ford, junior forward, and Ryan Knuppel, freshman guard, also made the All-Tournament Team.

After winter break the Bluejays began conference play in the CCIW. Elmhurst beat North Park University twice, lost to defending National Champion Illinois Wesleyan University twice, and split with the rest of the conference teams. The Bluejays ended their season on a high note by beating Carthage College and ruining Carthage's chances of going to the NCAA Tournament.

A promising future is in store for the Elmhurst men's team with the Bluejays returning all but two players from this year's fourth place conference finisher!

Women's Basketball

The Bluejays had a challenging but successful season. From the beginning there were many obstacles for the team to overcome. After losing several key players and some unexpected injuries, the team had to step up. Flexible team members were able to cover the missing positions easily. With outstanding leadership under seniors Cory Braun, Tracey Bornheim, Nicole Massey and Heather Shefbuch, the team was able to handle whatever came their way.

The team's standout player of the season was Deb Hughes. She surpassed many expectations--scoring over 1,000 points and being named pre-season

All-American and All-CCIW Honorable Mention.

Senior Cory Braun broke the record for the most steals (213). Under the leadership and superb coaching skills of Coach Cole, the Bluejays went 13-12. Coach Cole commented on the season, "This past season was a success not just because we had a winning record but because we faced a lot of adversity and we dealt with it." It's easy to see that women's basketball here at Elmhurst College has a very bright future.

Wrestling

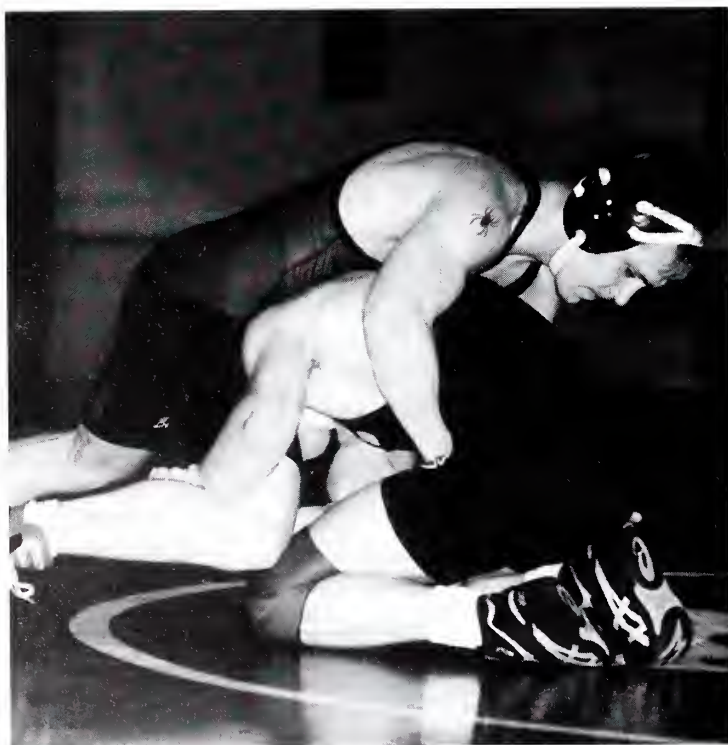

The Bluejay grapplers, captained by Brian Brewer, Mike Husslein, and Chris Muscia, had another great year for their rebuilding process this season. With a total of 17 wrestlers on the team, they managed to pound their way to a third place finish overall in the CCIW. Returning wrestlers included Brian Brewer (Sr.), Matt Durica (Sr.), Luis Tillett (Sr.), Mike Husslein (Jr.), Dean Jensen (Jr.), David Jensen (Jr.), Loren Brewer (So.), Tim Hennebry (So.), and Mike Malone (So.) A total of seven freshmen added their talent to the team this year as well.

"We are still in the building stage of this program," said head wrestling coach Tim Gotto. "The members of this team are serving as the foundation for the future."

The wrestling team went to Ft. Lauderdale, Florida for the first time this season to compete in the Citrus Classic tournament, and are planning on going again next year.

The Bluejays earned third-place Scholar All-America honors from the NCAA Division III National Wrestling Coaches Association (NWCA) with a GPA of 3.35 for its 10 regional entries. Men's Baseball

The Elmhurst College men's baseball team had a season that could be described as a rollercoaster. The team had their ups and downs, winning a few and losing a few. The team's season overall went well; they were able to make it to the playoffs. Unfortunately, the Bluejays did not meet their goal for the season like they did last year. Their goal was to hold on to the CCIW Championship title for another year. The team was disappointed but they are ready to try again next year.

The Most Valuable Players for the men's baseball team were fourth year letter-winner Chris Danko and second year letter-winner Phil Wojnicz.

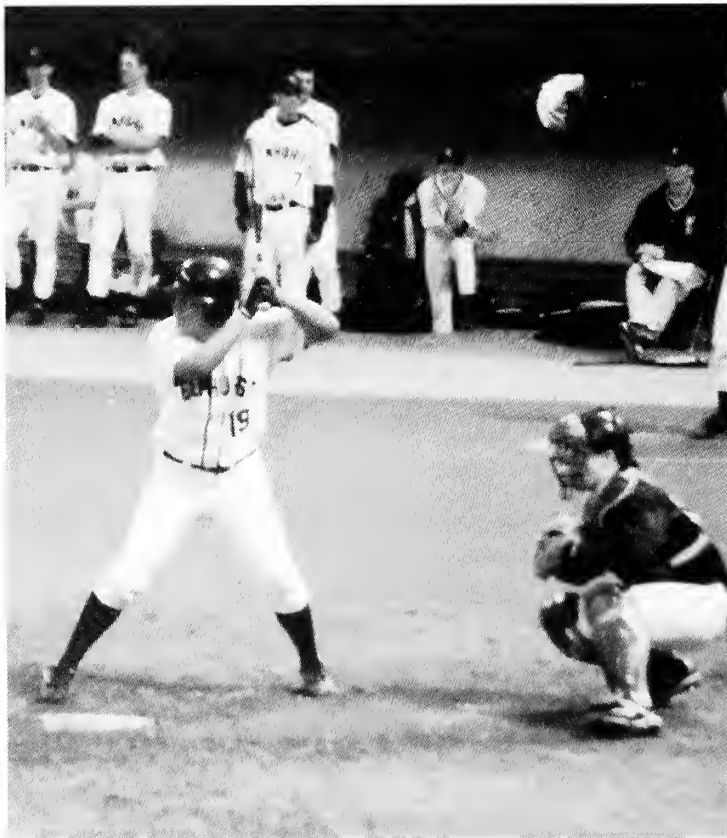

Danko was the only Bluejay named to the All-

CCIW First Team. The Bluejays' Scott Barone, Jeff Doll, and Wojnicz were named to the All-CCIW Second Team.

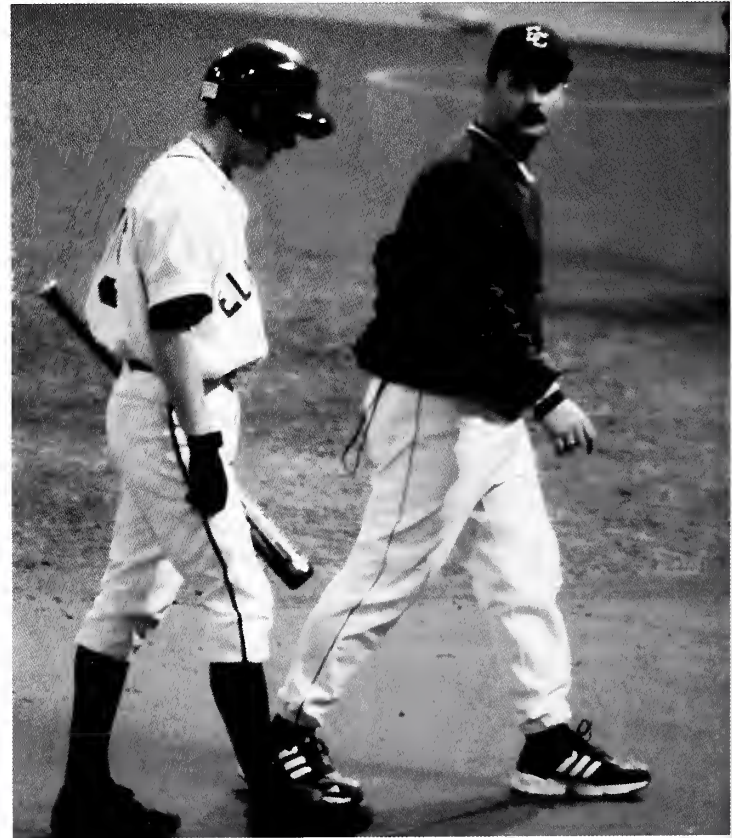

Doll was named Elmhurst College Male Scholar-Athlete of the Year and Danko was named Elmhurst College Male Athlete of the Year.

Next year the Bluejays will be losing the majority of their infield and four key pitchers. The team will be looking to the freshmen to step up and help lead the team to a successful season, and hopefully another CCIW Championship.

Women's Softball

The Elmhurst College women's softball team had a disappointing season. They were hoping for a CCIW Championship which they unfortunately did not win. With a winning season last year, the team was hoping to have another winning season this year. The softball team split most of their double-headers, winning one and losing one. The team ended its season with two victories over North Park.

The Bluejays will only be losing three seniors this year but, according to several team members, it will be a great loss. Seniors Mandy Bjekich, Tracey Bornheim, and Ellen McInerney showed outstanding leadership for the Bluejays during their season. Their leadership will be missed next year. The team will be looking for new leaders to step up and lead the team to a winning season.

According to the 1998 College Conference of Illinois and Wisconsin Softball standings, Kathi Roach had the most doubles for the season and Selina Farlinger had the most triples for the season. Stephanie Schuda, Angie Hoover, and Tracey Bornheim were the only Bluejays to be named to the All-Conference Team.

Next season, the team will be looking forward to a winning season. The team is also hoping for a CCIW Championship which they feel they are capable of obtaining.

Alpha Phi Aids CARDIAC RESEARCH

The Alpha Phi sorority is actively involved in the campus and surrounding community in many ways. In order to raise funds for their philanthropy, the Alpha Phi sorority sponsored a Jail Bail in the fall and a 5K walk in April. All of the money raised went to the Alpha Phi Foundation which supports cardiac aid research. In addition, their involvement included Candy Day, Spring Fling, and Relay for Life. The Alpha Phis could also be spotted at the Elmhurst Public Library on Saturday mornings reading stories to children. The diverse individuals comprising the sorority are involved in a wide array of academic and co-curricular activities at the College and strive to maintain the institutional mission for the betterment of students.

Alphas Recognized for Contributions

The Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Inc., Mu Mu Chapter, has multiple goals. They strive to stimulate the ambition of the members; to prepare the members for the greatest usefulness in the causes of humanity, freedom, and individual dignity; to encourage the highest and noblest form of manhood; and to aid downtrodden humanity in its efforts to achieve higher social, economic and intellectual status. Serving the African-American community through the fraternity's various foundations, the Alpha Phi Alpha's Education Foundation provides scholarships to outstanding students while the Building Foundation provides shelter to underprivileged families. In addition, the fraternity has dedicated itself to training the leaders of the next generation through national mentoring programs and partnerships designed to assist youth.

The Elmhurst College men of the Mu Mu chapter were very active this year. Some examples of their leadership and community participation include organizing a Kwanzaa celebration; establishing a lecture series at Marian Catholic and York high schools; organizing a stepshow for Spring Fling; supporting "Take Back the Night," and working with the Elmhurst Park District. In spring of 1997, the Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity was awarded the Chapter of Excellence and Organization of the Year. This spring, the fraternity was again recognized for their outstanding contributions when they received two honors: the Best Philanthropy Award and the Chapter of Excellence.

Alpha Sigma Phi's SERVE THE COMMUNITY

Though still a young organization at Elmhurst College, the Delta Chi Chapter of Alpha Sigma Phi is a national fraternity with its origins stemming from Yale University. Founded at Elmhurst in 1996, the fraternity has already made its mark on campus. The primary objective of the organization is summed up in the phrase, "To Better the Man." In order to accomplish their goal, the fraternity offers various leadership possibilities to its members and encourages them to be active on campus, both as an organization and as individuals. Admittedly, the members have fun, but always remain conscious of their responsibility both to the College and the surrounding community. This responsibility directs the members to become involved in annual service projects, such as fund-raising for Canine Companions for Independence and lending support to World AIDS Day. During the spring, the fraternity also sponsors a 3-on-3 basketball contest to raise philanthropic funds. Though the Elmhurst chapter may only be two years old, the fraternity members have solid goals for the future to continue to make positive contributions to their College Community.

DELTA CHI HAVE HIGH HOPES FOR FUTURE

The Elmhurst Chapter of Delta Chi was founded in 1991. Currently, there are 12 active members in the fraternity. Overcoming recent financial woes, the Delta Chis were able to enjoy various successes this year. In addition to their involvement on campus, the fraternity members spend much of their time volunteering within the community. Some establishments which have benefitted from the Delta Chis' philanthropy include the Women's Auxiliary, the Elmhurst Jaycees and the Lions Club. Looking to the future, the Chapter intends to work to increase their membership and to become more active within the community.

DELTA THETA Pi FOUNDED ON FRIENDSHIP

Founded at Elmhurst College in December 1993, the Delta Theta Pi sorority was based upon the deep friendship of four women. The current members plan to carry on the foundation with all of the women who choose to become a part of the organization. Commenting on the relationships between the women, Adelina Garofalo, the current president, says, "Because we are a smaller sorority, establishing a deep friendship with each other is not only easy, it is inevitable." Linked to its philanthropic cause, the Delta Theta PIs work to help women and children stricken with HIV and the AIDS virus. They plan to continue to lend support to such a worthy cause in the future.

At their September initiation, Amanda Fitzsimmons, Bridget Yakes, and Jennifer Heflin hold the banner created as a class gift to their sorority.

GAMMA CHIS RECOGNIZED FOR EXCELLENCE

On May 4, 1989, the Gamma Chi sorority founded a chapter at Elmhurst College. The women donate time and effort to major philanthropies such as The Clothesline Project, Easter Seals, Muscular Dystrophy Association and Heartland Blood Centers. Elmhurst's Gamma Chi sorority is composed of a myriad of women who describe themselves as a "group of very unique individuals who fit together perfectly."

These unique individuals are not only highly involved with their organization, but in all aspects of campus life as well. Striving to better themselves and the Elmhurst community, the Gamma Chis pride themselves on working to improve their organization. These efforts have not gone unnoticed. In 1997, the sorority was awarded the "Most Improved Chapter" award and, most recently, the sorority was honored with the coveted "Organization of the Year" award.

Phi Beta Sigma Uphold Founding Principles

In 1914, the Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity, Inc. was founded at Howard University. The three men who founded the organization felt there was a need for a Greek-letter organization which embraced the principles of brotherhood, scholarship and service. These tenets continue to be expressed in the fraternity motto, "Culture for service and service for humanity." Elmhurst's Iota Eta Chapter of Phi Beta Sigma strives to uphold the principles set forth by their founders while improving upon the organizational principles which arose over the past 84 years in response to the changing times in American history. The Phi Beta Sigma men have participated in over 100 service projects which proved not only enjoyable for the service participants, but the service was truly necessary for both the College and surrounding community. A brother of Phi Beta Sigma commits himself to being the best overall person possible, remaining loyal to his brothers, responsible to his organization and host university, and upholding the qualities set forth by the organization's founders.

Prepared to answer questions about his organization, Charles Smith staffs the Phi Beta Sigma informational table.

Sigma Kappa

Sigma Kappa sorority was the first national sorority founded at Elmhurst College in 1977. Since that time, the women of this organization have been striving for high standards of achievement—scholastically, socially, and spiritually.

The members of this sorority have received awards for this scholastic achievements as well as for their philanthropic efforts. Each year Sigma Kappa sponsors several events such as a Luminaria Ceremony to raise funds for the American Cancer Society, an all-campus Musical Chairs event to benefit eating disorders, and a date auction to raise money for the Alzheimer's Association.

Because of these, and other events, Sigma Kappa has been awarded "Best Philanthropy" for three years in a row (1995-1997). Additionally, Sigma Kappa was the recipient of the "Chapter of Excellence" award in 1997. This is an organization which succeeds because of the dedication of its members to each other and to the community by which it is surrounded.

ZETAS ENCOURAGE FINER WOMANHOOD

Founded at Howard University in Washington, D.C., the Zeta Phi Beta Sorority, Inc. was created as the sister organization to Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity, Inc. By choosing not to embrace the tenets of formally established black sororities, the five founding women sought to establish a new sisterhood, Finer Womanhood. Since its inception, Zeta has chronicled many 'firsts' among the historically black sororities. In addition to being the only organization constitutionally bound to a brother fraternity, Zeta was also the first to form auxiliary groups to establish international chapters in West Africa, Germany, the Virgin Islands, and the Bahama Islands. Currently, there are over 500 chapters around the world. The Zetas of Elmhurst College are active members of the Alpha Alpha Chapter which is the oldest chapter in Illinois. Chartered in 1931 as the Chicago Metropolitan Chapter, Alpha Alpha has 31 members from schools throughout the metropolitan area and Evanston. Some of the chapter's local projects include philanthropic walk-a-thons, food drives for the Greater Chicago Food Depository, and Voter Registration Drives.

Dinkmeyer resident Kristin Westlund (right side) dances at the Masquerade Ball on Halloween with Lisa Perry (a Schick resident), Caryn Griffith, and Kristy Brunetti.

This year in Dinkmeyer was a very exciting one! The highlight of the year for the building had to be the refinishing of the lobby. The lobby was painted, new curtains were put up and the furniture was replaced! It became THE place to study and hang out. We even had a few nights during exam week where there was no place left to sit. The building also received all new windows in the very beginning of the year, much to the delight of the residents!

Socially, residents were busy visiting one another and participating in various activities. Dinkmeyer residents get involved on campus allowing Dinkmeyer to be home to sorority and fraternity members, athletes from all sports, various vocal and instrumental groups, and a number of the other organizations on campus. Dinkmeyer residents definitely make themselves known on campus!

All Good in the Hood

With its 80%+ of first-year students to Elmhurst College, Niebuhr Hall was not the quiet place. When residents were not needing to be let into their rooms, because they locked themselves out 116 times, they could be found attending various programs or socializing in their rooms.

The Niebuhr Hall Council provided many opportunities for the residents. Whether getting involved or participating in an event, all enjoyed themselves. The Hall Council hosted two dances, the Halloween Dance and the "See how well you dance sober." There were hall shirts to be purchased at a reduced rate, a chance to throw a pie at a residence life staff member's face during Spring Fling, a chance to further your mind regarding diversity, or being able to hang your towel in the shower changing room, these were all coordinated by the Hall Council.

David Aleman, Emilie Landsay, Ken Preiksaitis, Nada Jukovich, and Soulin Sengsay stretch out in the shade at the barbecue cookout.

Residents greatly appreciated the wonderful Care Packages that were made by the Hall Council and the Resident Adviser staff.

Hey, speaking of the Resident Advisers, they also provided many programs. These included pumpkin carving, HIV/AIDS awareness, Pop-Up Videos, motivation, career searches/choosing a major, yoga, a clothes drive, collecting pop-tabs for the Ronald McDonald House, and the end of the year cookout on one of the hottest days of the year. Residents also had the opportunity to thank the Physical Plant staff for the great work during the year at the Physical Plant Recognition Breakfast hosted by the Resident Advisers.

Schick is Happening

Below: Ursula Sitko studies in the third floor lounge.

Schick Hall was the home for 205 students during the 1997-98 academic year. The year began with a bang with a kick-off barbecue in the Schick U. Planning this welcome back barbecue was the RA staff: Steve Diversey, Bindiya Dutt, Kristen Burdette, Rabia Khan, Vicki Broderick, DeRay Williams, and Soulin Sengsay. However, this was not the end to the festivities. Throughout the year, several programs and activities, both educational and social, were sponsored by both the RA staff (including newcomer Tim Tronnes) and the Schick Hall Council. Among the most memorable and highly attended were the ice cream social, the kareoke/sub social, and the traditional Schick Hall "Rock the U."

After first term Paul Labeledz resigned as president of Schick Hall Council. Tracy Reed moved up to the president position and Paul Taylor was elected vice-president. Every Tuesday night of second term they led the Schick Hall Council. Melinda Stevens took notes and typed them up for record. David Jensen kept the financial records straight. As a team they worked well together.

The Hall Council and RAs of Stanger organized many events for residents, including the Candlelight

Breakfasts. They organized breakfast food to be sold in the cafeteria during a finals night. They got many staff of the college to volunteer time to serve food to the students. They put paper and crayons on the tables along with a candle for students to spend time unwinding. Some individuals were even playing Hang Man.

As a commuter one deals with traffic everyday to school and back home. Some live just blocks away, others miles. On bad weather days it often took an hour or more when it usually takes a half an hour.

Getting a close parking space is also challenging. Often people were sitting in their cars waiting for someone to back out to get a spot. At times one would give up and just park behind the Mill Theatre.

THE NEW JAYPASS

Bluejay
Victor E
Student

Throughout the year, a committee of administrators and students worked to facilitate a new computerized photo ID system that, for now, will serve as an ID, a meal card and a library card. The committee also designed the look of the new card--contemporary, colorful, and unique to Elmhurst College--and facilitated a contest to name it. When all the votes were in, the card was named JAYPASS. During registration and throughout the summer, all students, faculty, administration and staff received their new JAYPASS cards.

Alisha Hammond is all smiles as she becomes the first student to receive a JAYPASS.

President Cureton, Joyce Callahan and Elizabeth Smith watch the creation of the first JAYPASS.

Alisha Hammond examines her finished JAYPASS.

EVERYBODY CAN DAY

Elmhurst College students, administrators and faculty help third graders from Hawthorne and Immaculate Conception elementary schools learn what it would be like to have a disability. Some students experience life in a wheelchair or as a blind person, while others learn sign language.

Brooke Alvis helps students from Immaculate Conception Grade School draw what they are feeling.

The third graders take turns trying to pick up objects off a table while wearing an oven mitt.

Dr. Maureen Lineau watches as students are blind-folded.

Students take turns petting a Canine Companion and learning how dogs help people with a variety of disabilities.

Teaching Excellence Award: Dr. Patricia McAfee Kovar

MIDYEAR COMMENCEMENT

Flying Backward

"All of us--family and friends, fellow students and faculty--all of us wish for each of you graduates all the successes we know you deserve. But we cannot remove from your lives the winds that will come, and we know that some of the most profound moments of your experience will happen when you are not sailing smoothly forward, but rather when your work requires far more persistence than you had planned, when friends and family exhaust your patience, when pressures overwhelm, when it would be so much more convenient to walk away from the right thing to do, when your reach exceeds your grasp. It is then I hope you will look up and catch a glimpse of those sea gulls flying backward and you will understand that in the long run purpose matters as much as progress, values are the ultimate value, and drive is meaningless without direction...."

--from President Cureton's Commencement Address

For Commencement's choral anthem, Sue Moninger conducts the Elmhurst College Choir in their performance of the Israeli folk tune, "Zum Gali (Dance the Hora!)."

Below: Graduate John Debowiecki can't help but smile as he receives his diploma from President Cureton.

BLACK HISTORY MONTH

To commemorate Black History Month this past year the College planned a number of events during the months of January and February.

The first event invited students to escape the frigid January temperatures and gather in the Founders Lounge to relate through song, poetry and original writings the importance of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in their lives and history.

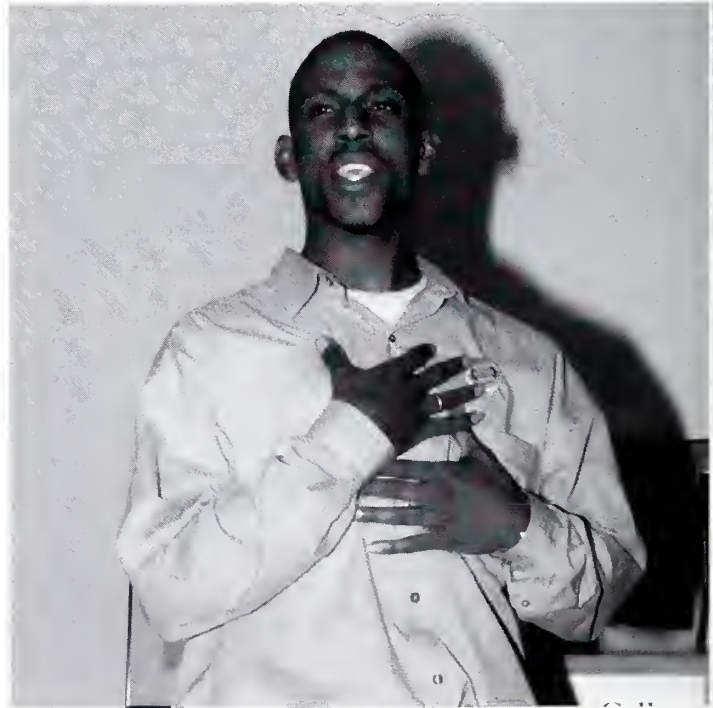

February 3 marked the opening of the art exhibit entitled, "Lost and Found in Chicago," which included collages, found objects and assemblages by Chicago artist John Rozelle.

Colored Museum, a student-directed and performed collection of skits, abstract monologues and dialogues, brought to life various aspects of African-American culture using both comedy and drama.

The 4th Annual Oratory Competition was on February 18 and featured guest speaker and master judge Angela Jackson, a poet, novelist and educator.

The 6th Annual Martin Luther King Jr. Guestship and the 8th Annual Gospel Extravaganza then concluded the activities.

--Emily Kline

Students Bindia Dutt and Benjamin Harris do their best to speak eloquently at the 4th Annual Black History Month Oratory Competition.

Dr. Fred Hord, Professor of English at Knox College delivers the opening remarks at the Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Guestship.

The 6th Annual Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Guestship

The purpose of the Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Guestship is to honor the memory and work of Dr. Martin Luther King by drawing upon the resources of key scholars. We are each a guest in this process of exploring important issues and savoring the depth of wisdom of Dr. Gwendolyn Brooks.

Dr. Gwendolyn Brooks is regarded as one of the preeminent American poets of this century. Dr. Brooks won the Pulitzer Prize in 1950 for Annie Allen, becoming the first black writer to win the award. From 1965-1968, she was a Day Session adjunct faculty member at Elmhurst College, during which time, at the 1967 Commencement ceremonies, Elmhurst College awarded her an honorary Doctor of Literature degree.

President Cureton and College students alike are given the opportunity to converse with Dr. Brooks at the pre-lecture discussion session.

JAZZ FESTIVAL

The 31st Annual Elmhurst College Jazz Festival

Chicago magazine once hailed the Festival as "one of the best buys for your jazz dollars...the Elmhurst Festival is a professionally judged competition that draws the better college jazz bands." Such "better college jazz bands" this past year included: Roosevelt University, Morton College, Harper College, Mineral Area College, Northern Illinois University, Iowa State University, University of Kentucky, University of Dayton and many others.

In addition to the bands, the festival offered the valuable opportunity for performers to absorb the musical expertise of Mark Colby (tenor saxophone), Orbert Davis (trumpet), Frank Mantooth (piano) and Mark Whitfield (guitar) as the featured artists/judges/clinicians. The special performance by Bill Holman and the Bill Holman Band, arguably the most interesting and persuasive composer and arranger in jazz, on Saturday night was also an enriching element for the participants, who now had a chance to sit back and become members of the audience.

The Elmhurst College Jazz Band, under the direction of Doug Beach, performed their own set on Friday night, featuring Festival Student Manager Jennifer Howenstine as the vocalist. The band then returned on Sunday evening to back up the guest artists Colby, Davis, Mantooth and Whitfield to close the festivities.

Dr. Goetz, acting as one of the Festival's MCs, is the chairperson of the College's Department of Theology and Religion, but is much more widely known for being in charge of 20 years of pathetic Festival T-shirt sales, assisted by his talented canine staff.

On Sunday Night, the EC Jazz Band accompanied guest artists, Mark Whitfield, Orbert Davis and Mark Colby in the Festival's finale performance.

WOMEN'S HISTORY MONTH

Women's History Month encompassed a variety of events which commenced with a presentation by Cindy Power on February 23 entitled "How to Love Your Body." To follow up with this concept of the female body image, an eating disorder screening was held on February 24 in which a student panel discussed body image. On February 26, Linda Woods Smith of Planned Parenthood discussed women's health care.

On March 3 an art show opening and reception featuring the women artists of the Art Department faculty was held. The exhibit continued through March 23. Another continuous display included in the month's festivities was a permanent quilt on which the College Community could share its thoughts on motherhood.

A session on coming out as a lesbian couple was then held on March 6 in which the first lesbian couple to be officially registered under the Oak Park ordinance told their story. The following Sunday, March 8, Attorney Rosalie Levinson, Professor at Valparaiso University's School of Law, spoke on "Equality in the Workplace, Equal Educational Opportunity and Security in the Home."

Finally, the month's events drew to a close with the Women's History Month Guestship and the Clothesline Project.

In addition to the formal address, Sells also dined with Volleyball Head Coach Julie Hall and student athletes Tara Slaughter, Mandy Grant, Nicole Purk and Mandy Bjekich.

Women's History Month Guestship

Marcia Sells, vice president for organizational development for the National Basketball Association (NBA), was the Women's History Month Guestship speaker on March 15. Sells spoke on the topic "The Season That Never Ends: Sport as Metaphor for Women's Lives."

Sells, an African-American woman, joined the NBA in 1996 after working for five years as the dean of students at Columbia University School of Law, her alma mater. Prior to that she spent five years as assistant district attorney with the Brooklyn District Attorney's Office handling rape and child abuse cases. Currently she resides in New York.

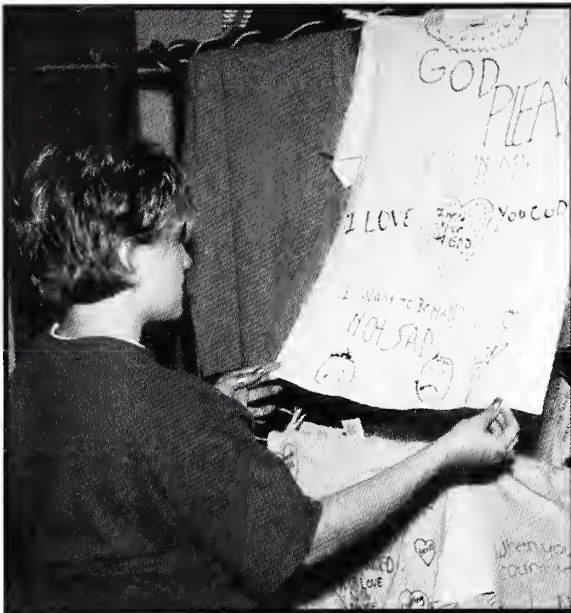

Celebrating the Spirit of Women

"Sports is a great metaphor for these struggles. And it is very much demonstrative of the challenges of women in life and women in any arena. This is true for women entering many professions, including sports. The hard part of the season that never ends is when there is a moment of rest. There is that old saying that a woman's work is never done."

--Marcia Sells

THE CLOTHESLINE PROJECT

This was the third year that the Clothesline Project, a traveling exhibit of shirts commemorating women victims of violence, came to Elmhurst College. This year's exhibit included four shirts made by people who attended last year and who chose to share their stories.

Sponsored by Gamma Chi, this exhibit functioned not only as art therapy for the survivors, but also as an educational opportunity for both women and men.

It is hoped that women will learn that violence can happen in many forms and in many situations. If, despite precautions, a woman has been victimized, it serves to let her know that she is not alone, that she should seek help, and that she should prosecute her offender so that he does not repeat his actions.

It is hoped that men will be made aware of the lifelong devastation that women feel when abused.

Through this exhibit, Elmhurst College hopes to both prevent future violence and care for those who have already been violated.

Right: Cool temperatures and a forecast for rain forces the display indoors.

LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE

Each organization on campus was encouraged to have at least two members attend the 1998 Leadership Conference, "Changes, Challenges, Choices." After they finished laughing at the comedian who started the conference they got into groups according to the organization they represented. In these groups they performed a Team Roles survey and discussed it. The All Campus Party that night had velcro tug-o-war, a basketball game, dancing, and food.

The next morning ice breakers were led by a representative of the Power Program. He got the students moving and working together to build a castle out of balloons and tape in small groups. Next, they each chose workshops to benefit the organization they represented.

The conference's keynote speaker, Jermaine Davis, '93 grad, pumped us up by saying we need to go for what we want, make changes when needed, take on challenges, and make choices.

--Kristin Brown

Junior Errol Brice confidently shoots the basketball during the conference's Friday night festivities.

Changes

"If you don't like the way the world is, you change it. You have an obligation to change it. You just do it one step at a time."

Marian Wright Edelman

Challenges

"My challenge to the young people is to pick up where this generation has left off, to create a world where every man, woman and child is not limited, except by their own capabilities."

Colin Powell

Choices

"Life is change. Growth is optional. Choose wisely."

Karen Kaiser Clark

HOLOCAUST GUESTSHIP

"Resistance is Rescue"

Two previous Holocaust Education Guestship speakers returned to the College in April for the eighth annual Guestship titled "Resistance is Rescue." In addition to this keynote address given by both speakers, there was also daily involvement by the two speakers in a variety of the College's courses of the following week.

As a young social worker, a Gentile, in German-occupied Amsterdam during World War II, she sheltered and saved Jewish children and adults. On the other end of the spectrum, Dr. Nechama was hidden as a child by Polish Christian families during the Holocaust.

Prior to the Guestship, Dr. Robert Butler, associate professor of history, spoke on "The Rise of Nazi Germany," and students and faculty participated in a common reading of the book Dry Tears, written by Dr. Tec about her rescue.

THE NIEBUHR LECTURE

Speller engages students in discourse following the Niebuhr Lecture.

Niebuhr Minds Compatible with Black Church

Dr. Julia M. Speller of Chicago Theological Seminary discussed "The Black Church and the Niebuhrs" in delivering the College's Niebuhr Lecture in the Frick Center.

The annual Lecture honors prominent EC alumni and brother theologians Reinhold Niebuhr, '10 and H. Richard Niebuhr, '12, who served as the College's sixth President (1924-27).

"I commend Elmhurst College, for not only keeping alive the legacy of the Niebuhrs, but for providing this opportunity for us to dig a little deeper, using non-traditional voices, so that we can discover the nuggets of theological gold still buried and yet to be mined in the thoughts of H. Richard and Reinhold Niebuhr," said Dr. Speller.

Dr. Speller pointed out how H. Richard Niebuhr, using insights from Marx, Weber and Troeltsch in Social Sources of Denominationalism, charted the changing historical involvement of the Church to show how class, race, nationality and economic factors divided the churches and how deeply middle class presumptions had penetrated the American religious mainstream.

No Sun But Lots of Fun

Cool temps and the threat of rain couldn't dampen the fun and games at the annual Spring Fling and Unity Picnic. Music filled the air as students, staff, family and friends sampled the numerous barbecue favorites. While some ate, others enjoyed jumping rope, playing twister, and competing in a number of activities including: sumo wrestling, boxing, bungee flyback, obstacle course and the dunk tank. Later in the afternoon additional events included pie in the RA's faces and Chubby Bunny contests both with marshmallows and jello. The highlight of the afternoon for many came when they were lucky enough to have their caricatures drawn by an extremely talented artist who was on site for the day.

Florida Here We Come!!

More than 40 people travelled on a charter bus down to Pensacola Beach, Florida for the second annual Campus Ministry Alternative Spring Break Road Trip. This group worked on four service projects and had a lot of fun during the week. After the long bus ride, many walked across the street from the Comfort Inn upon arrival on Sunday afternoon to check out the Gulf of Mexico. The white sand on the beach made it so bright individuals were squinting their eyes.

When arriving at the site of the Habitat for Humanity Service Project all you saw was the cement foundation, lumber piled on the ground, and tools to use to build the frame of the house. It was amazing to see the frame of the house up, the shingles on the roof, and ready for inspection after just three days of work!

Mr. Clyde Hippard, a '58 graduate of Elmhurst, saw us on the television news Monday night. He called around to find out our location and showed up on site the next day. Volunteering his time, he educated Lisa Perry and Lauren Nestuk by taking them to the National Museum of Naval Aviation. On the road back to Elmhurst, the bus load toured the Alabama Civil Rights Institute in Birmingham.

Each individual who went on the trip learned, saw and experienced something new. It went from being in the state of Florida to hammering a nail into wood, to putting siding on a house, to the history of African Americans, to how fast the sun can give you a sunburn.

--Kristin Brown

Far from basking in those wonderful Florida rays, these students work diligently by nailing in shingles for the roof.

These volunteers lend their assistance by putting siding on another house that has been inspected.

AN EVENING OF HONORS

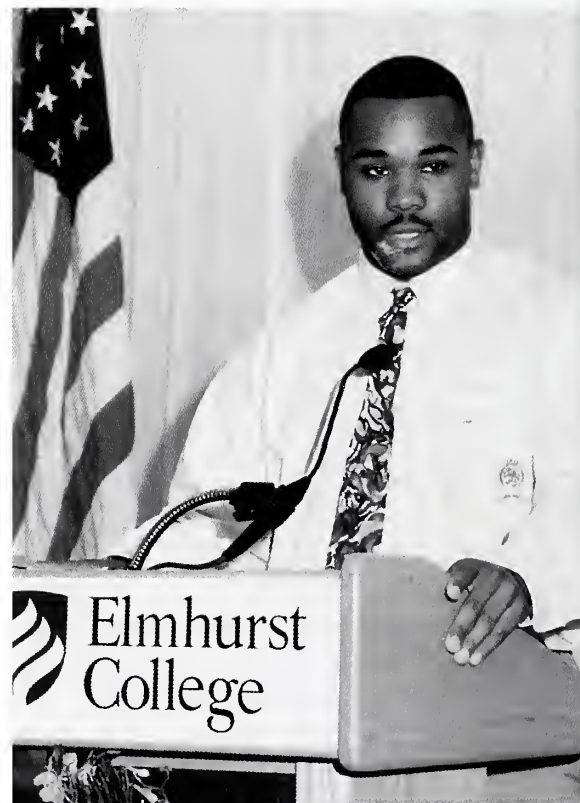

Students, faculty, administrators and their families gathered to celebrate the accomplishments of all during An Evening of Honors held on May 15.

Amy Ferraro was named Senior of the Year, Gamma Chi was selected as Organization of the Year, and Kristopher Hewitt and Marti Lansu were awarded Founders Awards. Dr. Debra Meyer and Dr. Sally Webber received President's Awards for Excellence in Teaching, and Dr. Meyer and Dr. George Thoma were honored as Outstanding Academic Advisers. Dr. Kathy Sexton-Radek was named Organization Adviser of the year.

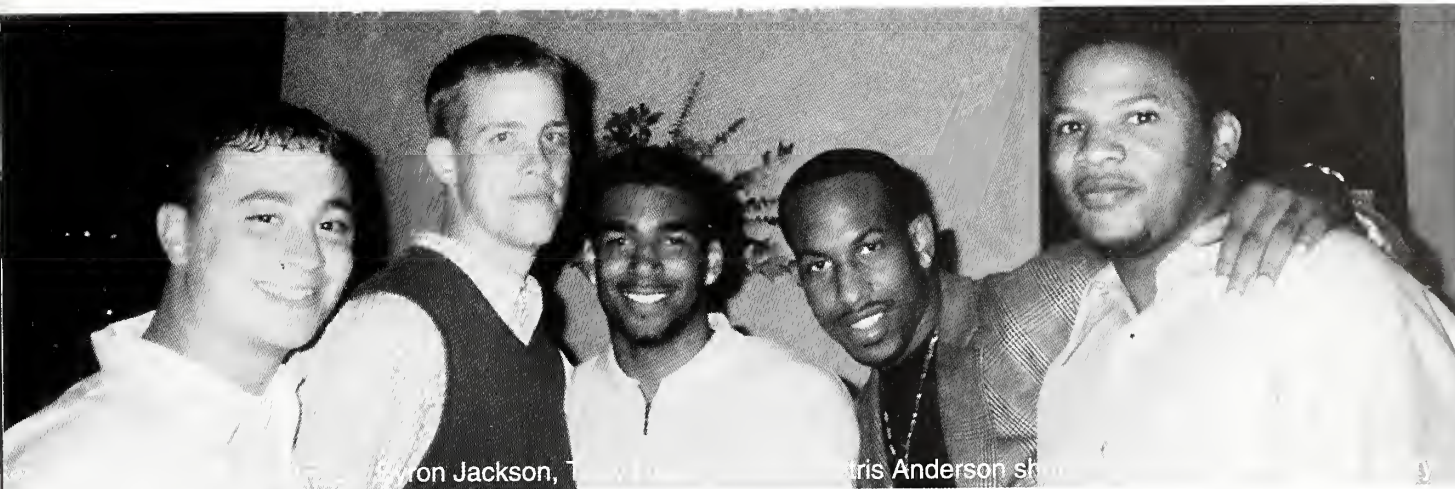

Seniors Kristopher Hewitt and Marti Lansu are congratulated by President Bryant Cureton. Kris received a Founders Award for Service to the Campus, and Marti accepted her Founders Award for Service to the Community.

SENIOR WEEK

Aaron Jackson,

Chris Anderson

Senior Week kicked off with the annual Senior Party hosted by the National Alumni Association and the Office of Student Affairs. "Pardi Gras" was held the last day of finals at the Ambassador Banquet Hall.

Throughout the week that followed, seniors enjoyed an outing to Harrah's Casino, a barbecue dinner with their friends and families on the College Mall, a picnic and Kane County Cougars baseball game, and a fantastic post-Commencement reception in Kranz Forum where seniors hugged, cried and said good-bye.

CHOIR TOUR

The Elmhurst College concert choir traveled to Toronto, Canada; Ontario, Canada; Grosse Point Farms, Michigan; Ann Arbor, Michigan, and Waterloo, Indiana. The choir performed a variety of literature from classical (Liebeslieder Walzer, Opus 52--Brahms) to contemporary spirituals (The Battle of Jericho--Hogan). Exciting performance locations included the Casa Loma (Toronto), St. Michael's Cathedral (Toronto), Bethlehem United Church (Ann Arbor), and a host of others. The Casa Loma is a beautiful castle in which all of the furniture and belongings of the original owner have been preserved and a beautiful garden has been maintained. We had the honor of performing in the library there. St. Michael's Cathedral is a humongous cathedral in which we attended mass and received a warm welcome from the congregation as we performed (after mass). Bethlehem United Church was an exceptionally special performance for the choir. The pastor of the church is an alumnus of Elmhurst College (O.L. Willimann, '55) and was retiring this year. It was also special because this was the last performance in a church for all graduating seniors.

When members of the choir had free time, they were found dancing at the Rock 'N Diner (Toronto), attentively watching Phantom of the Opera (Toronto), or expanding their minds at Greenfield Village (Dearborn, Michigan). Other times members were found kicking back at the Hard Rock Cafe (Toronto), at the CN Tower (Toronto), or bonding in their hotel rooms.

As you can see, the choir really has awesome tours. If you love singing and want to have the opportunity to make long-lasting friendships, maybe you ought to join the choir!

--Nikita Gadson

COMMENCEMENT

ON UNCHOPPING A TREE

Where Do We Begin?

"...We have sought to unchop a tree of a certain kind. You will go into a community, a broken community. You will encounter many a tree that has experienced the wood cutters axe and you may need to ask yourself, where do I begin?

"I close by suggesting there are three things you must do. The first is start wherever possible. Don't sit around and wait for the ideal situation to emerge, because it never will. Grab the first opportunity that comes. It may take you farther than you think.

"The second suggestion I make to you, is that you need to think a new thought and you need to do a new deed. In order to do that, you may be required to do the most difficult thing you've ever done in your life, and that is to question. Maybe even to reject the fundamental presuppositions with which you have operated in the truth. Go out and risk yourself and think a new thought.

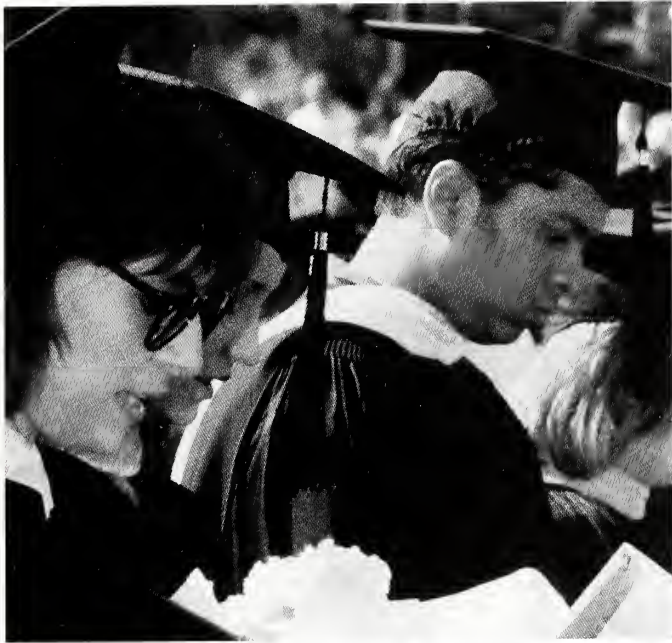

"Thirdly and finally, you've got to make it work. You've got to make it work. Be prepared for the criticism that comes, because if you think a new thought, you will experience criticism....Think a new thought and make it work."

--from Charles Villa-Vicencio's Commencement Address

Assembling in the College Mall, graduates bask in the sunlight and reflect on how their futures too will be bright.

The graduates follow along in their programs.

The 1998 Yearbook Staff would also like to thank the Office of College Advancement, the Student Affairs Office, the Office of Residence Life, Campus Life Council, Registration and Records staff, Root Studios, Herff-Jones, Sarah Hawkins, John Quigley, Lu Aiello, Dr. Kathleen Simons, Karen Jurcazak, Jan Kerr, and Gregg Mel

The staff would like to send a special thank you to Kristin Whitehurst and Megan McGuire. Kristin advised the yearbook staff. She worked late nights, helped gather information, bought us pizza, and always provided encouragement and support to the staff. Megan was our plant representative from Herff Jones Yearbooks. Megan helped with computer problems, provided us with ideas and options for the yearbook, gave us the confidence to be creative, and was always feeding us encouragement and support to make this year's yearbook bigger and better.

Thank you, we couldn't have done it without all of you!
